

PRODUCTION LINE SUPERVISOR

A vacancy exists for this role, with a start available early in January.

The company runs a busy, multi-line site bottling and packaging wine and spirits under contract.

The successful applicant will lead a small production line team and will liaise with the Production management team and other departments (wine cellar, laboratory, dry goods supply, maintenance and warehousing) to achieve the set production targets.

The candidate profile is as follows:

- Experience in beverage bottling/filling and packaging operations, preferably including experience in the wine industry, is essential
- Experience in supervision/team leadership roles with a good performance record is strongly preferred, but the candidate should at least have sound experience at a senior operator level
- A mature, well organized, self-motivated and quality-focused approach is critical
- Experience &/or training in HACCP and BRC (or similar) Quality Management Systems would be a distinct advantage
- Experience in basic computer data entry and processing and/or experience in working with an integrated ERP system would be well regarded

The successful candidate will need to be available to work shift work. Regular afternoon shift is envisaged for this role after an initial training and familiarization phase, but the role requires someone who can work all shifts as required.

This is a salaried position, with the salary package to be negotiated with the applicant.
